

THE CONVENTION A GREAT SCENE

Republican Party Holds Its Twelfth National Convention in Chicago This Afternoon.

VIEWS BY STAFF CORRESPONDENT

Wisconsin Fight Has Taken Up the Consideration of the Entire Assembly of Leading Men of The Party.

[Special by Scripps-McLain.]
Chicago, June 21.—The officers of the convention made their appearance on the platform shortly after ten-thirty. It was eleven before the hall began to fill. The Iowa delegation headed by Allison got the first applause. Dolliver of the same state was greeted warmly. Senators Dewey and Cullom were recipients of applause which redoubled a few minutes later when "Uncle Joe" Cannon entered with Cornelius Bliss, treasurer of the national committee.

Payne Arrives
At 11:40 Chairman Payne made his way to the platform accompanied by Secretary Root, who will be temporary chairman. Everyone in the hall joined to greet them. Delegates arrived in droves and nearly all are present. The first real enthusiasm was when Fairbanks, accompanied by the Indiana delegation, arrived. The people howled and stamped and clapped their hands. It was all over in a few seconds and again the hall was quiet. At twelve-fifteen Payne called the convention to order. At twelve-fifteen Rev. Frost opened the proceedings by prayer.

Almighty God, our help in ages past, our hope for years to come, we thank Thee for Thy goodness to the people of this land. Our sins have been many, but Thy mercies have been great. Thou hast poured out Thy gifts without measure. The opening years of a new century have been freighted with wealth for hand and mind and heart. Best of all thou art giving Thyself in a perfect and offering of Thy life for the life of man. We do not forget that in the hour of deep sorrow when the heart of the nation was darkened by the murder of the nation's chief there was no break in the march of Thy purpose, the orderly administration of our government or the faith of the people in Thy God. Under the guidance of Thy Holy Spirit we were brought by our national woes nearer Thee. Surely Thou wilt never forsake this people. May no dominance of greed, no riot of passion, no weakening of religious conviction or enthronement of matter over spirit cause the people to forsake Thee.

May the heritage of honor coming to us from the fathers in memories of noble sacrifices and valiant deeds be at once our glad possession and our sacred trust. While we are grateful for the past may we remember that today is better than yesterday, and so act that tomorrow shall be greater than today. Wherever our country's flag floats as the symbol of our government, even to the isles of the sea, may we cleave to the righteousness that exalted a nation, and cast out the sin that is a reproach to any people. Save our nation, we beseech Thee, from all the evil things which defile the home, impair civil liberty, corrupt politics, or undermine the integrity of commercial life. Bring to naught the schemes of men who would debauch or oppress human life for the gratification of lust or for personal enrichment or power. May exaltation come only to men who despise the gain of oppressions and shake the hands from holding of crimes. May all sections and races, all creeds and sentiments, all occupations and interests become united through the Spirit of the Highest into a citizenship with a passion for righteousness, wherein each individual shall look up to God as the Father of all and upon every man as a brother.

We pray Thee to overrule the deliberations, conclusions and issues of this convention for the good of the American people and the welfare of mankind. Bless Thy servant, the chief magistrate of our nation, may he and all others clothed with authority by the sovereign people be protected by the powers of Thy kingdom and contribute to its ultimate triumph and consummation in all the earth. All nations are Thy children. Guide and keep them by Thy gracious providence, and hasten the coming of the day when love shall have conquered hate, and wars shall have ceased, and all peoples shall dwell together in unity. For Thine is the kingdom and the power and the glory for ever. Amen.

At the conclusion Senator Scott presented Payne with the gavel in behalf of the Chicago committee. Payne returned thanks. John Malloy, reading clerk, then read the call of the convention. When Hanna's name was read assigning the call an outburst of applause greeted it. Gov. Odell moved the approval of the selection of Root to be temporary chairman at 12:30. Payne introduced Root as the temporary chairman and Root was greeted with applause.

Root's description of the splendid financial condition of the country was loudly applauded. The statement that no honest industry had been stopped, but that the small producer had been protected from crushing competition by unfair trusts was earnestly cheered, as was the reference to the beneficial results of the United States by the occupation of the Philippines.

Earlier Dispatch

(By Staff Correspondent.)
Chicago, June 21, 11:45 a. m.—The twelfth national convention of the republican party will soon be convened. In a few minutes Henry C. Payne of Wisconsin, acting chairman of the national committee, will call the great gathering together and Rev. Timothy P. Frost will offer the prayer asking for the guidance of the Great Power above in their deliberations. Secretary Elmer Dwyer will read the temporary roll of the convention and the work of choosing the standard bearers and platform of the republican party will begin. The great coliseum hall is filled. Since early morning the streets in front of the building have been crowded with people who are here to watch the proceedings. At ten-thirty the doors were thrown open to delegates and other ticket holders and the work of the sergeant at arms and his assistants began. Janesville is represented among the assistant sergeant at arms by A. H. Sheldon, W. A. Jackson and H. J. Cunningham.

Preliminary Steps
It has now been decided that Henry C. Payne will succeed himself as the Wisconsin member on the national committee. This is the result of the caucus of the Wisconsin delegation last evening. M. B. Rosborough was the choice of the republican convention at the opera house at Madison but he withdrew his name in favor of Mr. Payne as soon as it was found his health was such he could accept. Senator Charles was elected chairman of the delegation and Senator Spooner chosen member of the committee on resolutions. Ex-Congressman Barney of West Bend was named on the credential committee. Judge Baensch of Manitowoc was made an honorary vice president of the convention. J. W. Cochrane of Ashland was put on the committee on permanent organization. Congressman Babcock is on the committee on rules and order of business. Janesville is especially signaled for prominence by the appointment of Hon. Ogden H. Fishers as a member of the committee to notify the presidential nominee of his election.

Well Represented
In fact Janesville has been well to the fore in all the maneuvers of the pre-convention campaign here in Chicago. Chairman Goldin of the state central committee, M. G. Jeffris an alternate delegate at large, Senator Whitehead, one of the advisors of the fight for recognition, Ogden H. Fishers as a delegate and placed upon an important committee and the three assistant sergeants at arms, all are Janesville representatives. The Wisconsin fight has been the most picturesque of any of the contests that have come up. The determination of the La Follette leaders to insist that their convention was the right one and their bad judgment in criticizing not only the committee on resolutions but the entire republican party for recognizing the conservatives, has created more than talk. It has been a bitter fight and while men not thoroughly conversant with the Wisconsin situation have suggested a compromise and a split delegation rather than see the state lost to Roosevelt, they have quickly changed their opinion when the true facts have been made known.

Utter Desperation
Everywhere I have gone the Wisconsin fight has come up and the utter desperation of the governor and his followers deplored by the thinking men of the party. The threat of the defeat of the president so prominently brought forward by the men in their last ditch has lost its force and prominence. Their headquarters at the Victoria hotel is thronged with reporters and curiosity seekers who have heard of the fight but few men of national reputation have appeared. Congressman Henry Cooper was there for a short while on his visit to Chicago last week and other Wisconsin leaders have dropped in but if they were not of the "faith" they have had scant welcome. Governor La Follette has kept to his room and has counseled secretly with his leaders.

On the Floor
From all I can learn there has been a decided hope that the governor would succeed in bringing his fight on the floor of the convention on the part of the conservative leaders. If this was done it would probably be La Follette vs. Spooner and the long-looked for opportunity to hear these two men speak on opposite sides would be enjoyed by many. However it is doubtful if the fight will be taken beyond the committee on credentials who will decide without a doubt the same way as did the national committee.

THE DEMOCRACY—I CAN ACTUALLY TASTE THAT DARK OBJECT ALREADY.

Chicago, June 21.—The tariff plank will probably be adopted by the convention tomorrow. It bears the stamp of Roosevelt's approval and is as follows: "Protection, which guards and develops our industries, is the cardinal policy of the republican party. We insist upon the maintenance of this principle. But recognize the particular tariff schedules neither sacred nor immutable. The present duties must be altered when the changing conditions and public interest demands. But this work cannot be safely committed to any other hands than those of the party of protection."

Rush Work
Chicago, June 21.—Efforts are being made by the New York delegation this morning to rush the convention and complete all the business by tonight. Gov. Odell and ex-Gov. Black and Chairman Payne and Senator Foraker of Ohio are prominent advocates of an early adjournment. At the concluding words of Root's speech in which he named Theodore Roosevelt it was a signal for an enthusiastic demonstration. The whole convention sprang to their feet cheering wildly and waving flags, hats and handkerchiefs. At the conclusion of the speech, national committeeman George Stewart in behalf of the city of Chicago, presented Root with a gavel. The temporary officers of the convention on motion of Senator Dick of Ohio were approved as selected by the national committee. On motion of ex-Senator Carter of Montana the rules of the last convention were adopted.

La Follette Mad
Chicago, June 21, 2:45 p. m.—Reports are circulated that the Wisconsin faction under La Follette which was defeated by the national committee will only make a weak protest before the committee on credentials and will be refused recognition and will appeal to the people of Wisconsin for vindication. They claim La Follette will be elected at all odds.

STATE NOTES

Racine's new island public park will be opened on July 5 with a band concert and address by Major Nelson. Percy Longneau, the 17 year old son of Daniel Longneau, was drowned in Fox River at Deperre while swimming on Monday.

HEARST IS CONFIDENT DELEGATES ARE TRUE

Declares He Considers Illinois Instructions Binding—Confers With Political Managers.

Chicago, June 21.—William Randolph Hearst of New York, Democratic aspirant for presidential honors, suddenly and unexpectedly slipped into Chicago Monday. He went immediately to his newspaper office and spent the day examining his Chicago plant, making changes in his forces, directing his presses in the east and west by telegraph, and conferring with his political managers.

He was the guest of Andrew M. Lawrence, his western manager, and his wife at dinner, and later the party went to the Grand opera house. Just before the last act Mr. Hearst left his seat, and when met at the door said he had not come west on a political mission, and had not given politics a thought.

"You must excuse me," said he. "I must telephone some instructions to my paper. Come around later and I'll give you an interview."

"Are you going to the St. Louis convention with the hopes you had when you entered the race for the nomination fully realized?"

"Oh, yes; yes, indeed!"

"You are still a candidate for the nomination, then, and the impression that you had practically given up the fight is incorrect?"

"Yes, I am still a candidate."

"What do you think of the Illinois instructions? Do you think they are binding, or will the unit rule provision be likely to defeat the intention of the instructions?"

"It has been my opinion that the instructions were most explicit and binding."

RUSSIANS ARE LOSING DAILY

Thirty-Five Hundred of Their Wounded Are Hurried Towards Harbin This Morning.

STACKELBERG'S ARMY HARD UP

Japs Unite Their Forces to Give Hated Russians a Severe Drubbing at Every Turn in the Retreat.

[Special by Scripps-McLain.]
Tokio, June 21.—The great battle of the campaign in Manchuria is now being fought below Kai Ping, according to reports received here today, and the same reports declare that the Russians are being forced back all along the line with heavy loss. Gen. Kuropatkin, the reports say, was in command of the Japanese army and had under his immediate command some 50,000 troops of all arms. In addition to this two divisions from Kuroki's army took the Russians in the rear and flank.

Their arrival was as timely as that of Blucher at Waterloo, and it is reported that only a prompt withdrawal from the Russian position prevented the capture of the Russian commander. The enemy made desperate resistance, but the Japanese infantry would not be denied and captured many positions at the point of the bayonet. It is said that the Russians are hurrying reinforcements, while Kuroki is pushing his troops by forced marches toward Hai Cheng.

It is believed that the Japanese will reach the latter place in advance of Kuropatkin's retreating army, and that the Russians will find themselves in the jaws of a trap which will crush them and practically end the war. Reports are current that Admiral Kamemura has, at last succeeded in bringing the Vladivostok squadron into action and that a sea fight is now on. The best opinion, however, is that these reports are without foundation and that the Russians are back in Vladivostok. If this is true it may result in the recall of Admiral Kamemura and the assignment of Admiral Uru to the task of blockading Vladivostok.

Pusan, Korea, June 21.—General Kuroki has drawn the Russians into the first general engagement of the war, and a desperate battle is now raging at Kai Ping, on the west coast of the Kiao Tung peninsula, twenty-five miles south of New Chwang. General Kuroki, sweeping up from St. Yen, where he defeated the Russians after seven hours' fighting, formed a junction with General Oku's forces, which were in pursuit of General Stackelberg's army of 40,000, retreating north from Vafangow after defeat.

It is reported that General Stackelberg lost more than 7,000 men killed, wounded and prisoners at Vafangow, but he has received 10,000 reinforcements, dispatched south from Liao Yang. The combined forces of Generals Kuroki and Oku number about 85,000 men. General Kuroki has an enormous battery equipment and heavy field pieces. It is believed the first great and decisive battle of the war will be fought and won during the week. Many carloads of Russian wounded have been sent north.

Japs Lose Whole Battalion
St. Mi Chen, Manchuria, June 21.—The Japanese artillery at the battle of Vafangow included heavy siege guns using Lydite and sweeping the whole battlefield. The Japanese suffered tremendous losses in turning the Russian right. One battalion of the Tientsin 16th regiment was annihilated. The hospital section at Vafangow was repeatedly struck by the enemy's shells, which mutilated the Russian wounded.

Russian Estimate of Casualties
St. Petersburg, June 21.—A detailed report of the Russian losses at the battle of Vafangow given out yesterday afternoon places the total at 3,000 killed and wounded, mostly men who belonged to the troops forming the Russian right flank.

Details Meager in Russia
St. Petersburg, June 21.—The belief was general here today that Russia has gained a great victory on the Liao Tung peninsula; that the Japanese have been driven back with great loss to the south of Kaichow, with Kuropatkin's victorious battalions in hot pursuit. The war office admits that there is or has been hard fighting by Kuropatkin, but says he has no definite news.

On the naval side it is different, however. Skrydloff has returned to Vladivostok after his raid, in which he destroyed ten Japanese vessels and killed or captured many Japanese troops. There is great rejoicing over the naval successes. There is some comment over the fact that the Port Arthur squadron does not make a sortie, which would help Stossel in his defense of the fortress.

Heavy Fighting Near Haicheng
London, June 21.—If the reports from Liao Yang are to be credited another serious battle is in progress at or near Haicheng.

A dispatch from Nowchwang says there was renewed fighting on Sunday at Kwanwentsi, between Sungyo and Kaichau. Gen. Kuropatkin reports he is there personally directing the Russian operations. He is constructing field works.

The dispatch adds that during forty-eight hours 3,500 wounded passed through Tashkiao, bound for Harbin. There is a general lack of medical provisions for Russian wounded, resulting in piteous scenes of suffering.

Japanese Forces Unite.
All reports indicate that Generals Kuroki and Oku have united their forces, Kuroki advancing westward from Shuyen and Oku pressing northward on the heels of Stackelberg's retreating army.

In a dispatch to the emperor at St. Petersburg Gen. Kuropatkin reports that three bodies of troops are extending their front between Vafangow and Tschonjon.

The Japanese army apparently began its advance Saturday night or Sunday, as Gen. Kuropatkin reported on Saturday that he had received a report from Gen. Stackelberg that the enemy had not advanced north from Vafangow up to the time Stackelberg's report was sent.

Russians in Inferior Force.
It is stated that Oku has under him 70,000 men. The strength of Kuroki's force is unknown, but probably it consists of several divisions. It is believed that the Russian army is outnumbered.

Kuopatklin is believed to be in command at Haicheng in person, and it is declared that he has marched a large part of his main army south from Liao Yang.

Vladivostok Fleet Is Safe.
St. Petersburg, June 21.—Vice Admiral Skrydloff has sent the following message to the emperor: "The cruiser division has returned to Vladivostok without losing any men or sustaining any damage."

In view of Vice Admiral Skrydloff's statement that the Japanese transport Sado was sunk the admiralty is awaiting an explanation of the Tokio telegrams saying the Sado was being towed to port.

Stevens as "Dark Horse"
Former Vice-President's Chances: New York, June 21.—Some of the Democratic leaders from the south and west who have been in conference with local Democrats are preparing to spring the name of former Vice-President, Adlai E. Stevenson as a "dark horse" at the national Democratic convention upon the theory that he is the only man who can harmonize the Cleveland Democrats and the Bryan Democrats. It is urged in his favor that Cleveland accepted him as a running mate in 1892 and that he could not say anything against him as a candidate for president at the present time. On the other hand, he was a candidate with Bryan in 1900 and was a Nebraska man would be forced to support a man who ran on the ticket with him.

Officers elected at the fifth annual convention of the Wisconsin Letter Carriers' association at Racine are: President, J. W. Telfar, Kenosha; vice president, W. L. Lau, Superior; secretary, R. A. Henderson, Baraboo; treasurer, H. Jyko, Fort Atkinson; sergeant at arms, W. W. Davis, Appleton.

CIRCUSDAY HAS VARIED CHARMS

IS GALA DAY FOR THE SMALL BOY.

RINGLINGS' SHOW PLEASING

Great and Glorious Wagons, Gay
Bands and Spirited Horses
Make Goodly Showing.

Today is a gala day of the year in Janesville, judging from the crowds of people on the streets this morning. Ringling Brothers' circus steamed into the city early this morning and with it and following it thousands of people come from the small towns in the vicinity and from the country. It is probably the greatest circus that ever visited Janesville. Car after car and train after train steamed into the city beginning at 3 o'clock this morning, laden with paraphernalia of the circus. They came from Milwaukee.

The Unloading
The unloading took place at the St. Paul yards. The wagons were rapidly wheeled from the cars, horses attached and whisked to the show grounds in South Janesville. The rumble of heavy wagons awoke hundreds of people about daylight and by 5 o'clock the morning there were several thousand people on the show grounds watching the work of laying out the grounds, setting up tents and stands and getting ready for the great performances of the afternoon and evening.

It was like moving a large army, even more complicated and better organized than a force of military. The alertness and precision with which the hundreds of men under their different foremen all guided by the superintendent, worked was marvelous.

Before 7 o'clock the tents were well in place and the performers, the menagerie and the countless multitude of employees and their baggage were housed on the great plain at Spring Brook.

The canvases and enclosures of the circus cover a greater space than those of the same circus last year and are larger and than any circus last year and are larger than any circus that has ever visited the city previously.

The tented city sprang up as from the touch of a magic wand. Where yesterday was a field of growing grass, today is a mass of whiteness, a bustle and confusion of thousands of people. Yet the confusion is not that of the employees of the circus. Each has his appointed work and while all are busy and active every minute, there is never a conflict of endeavor.

The Parade
A bewildering and color blinding collection of gaily caparisoned horses, brightly costumed men and women, stately floats, and strange looking creatures of the forest and jungle formed the big street parade of Ringling Brothers' circus which threaded the main streets of the city this forenoon, the masses of people leaving a space in the center of the street just broad enough for the procession to pass and not a foot wider.

The procession left the grounds at the time announced, and covered the route mapped out for it in about two hours. The procession displayed much that was original in the way of features and was noticeable for its cleanliness. The costumed riders and the trappings of the horses lacked the usual wrinkles and stains and the hard worked persons who rode on top of the big floats and on horseback seemed to lack somewhat of the worn-out expression usually so noticeable among habitués of the canvases enclosure and sawdust ring.

Gold and Scarlet Predominate
As to color scheme the big procession was distinctly a study in scarlet and gold, these colors predominating in splashes and streaks throughout every inch of the parade. The most pleasing feature of the entire parade was the huge pipe organ occupying a master wagon hauled by eight horses with the organist playing classical strains which seemed for the moment to take the listener away from the clamor and dust of the city streets to the glimmer and better things, Bambi there were in profusion each playing; the latest of the popular hits. And not to be forgotten was the clown band, each member playing lustily but creating unalloyed amusement from the fact that not one of the tunes issuing from the different instruments was like any other.

Many Animals Seen
The cages containing the animals were many of them open to the public view so that the awe inspiring king of the jungle and his striped cousins could be plainly seen striding restlessly back and forth and sniffing at the air as if to catch a breath of the old-time desert air from the Sahara or the jungle pools.

A herd of forty elephants, each with its mahout seated on the massive forehead of his charge formed a strange sight and was perhaps the most interesting feature of the procession. A uniformed attendant who rode just ahead of the elephants shouting "Look out for your horses, here? come the elephants," was a feature which Ringling Brothers may be congratulated on introducing as it doubt prevented many runaways, the fright which the average horse takes at sight of one of these unwieldy creatures being well known.

Floata of Nations
A long procession of floats representing the various nations of the earth with the inhabitants in their native costume grouped on top or inside formed a section striding over several blocks, both interesting and picturesque. Behind a number of these floats were groups of riders representing the natives of the country.

uniform of United States troopers, a band of Scotch Highlanders with bag pipes for instruments, the ever-present steam callopie bringing up the tail end of the parade were other features which attracted attention during the half hour it took the procession to pass any one spot.

The Performance
The circus this afternoon was one of the wonders of the year. Ringlings have appeared in Janesville before, but the brightest promises of the advance man were realized in the performance given at the Spring Brook grounds this afternoon and which will be repeated again this evening.

As one enters, the menagerie for the first half hour or if one is early, the first hour, attracts the attention. Animals from all parts of the world, many new to the public gaze in Janesville line the immense canvas walls. The herd of elephants, the camels, the zebras, giraffe, the latter rare because of the difficulty of transporting them, all delight young and old. The monkeys, lions, tigers, panthers, chattering parrots, in their cages, clean and attractive hold the crowds in wonder.

Marvelous Feats
On the interior of the large tent, for two hours, the thousands of people seated about the vast amphitheater watch the myriad wonders of the ring, the brilliant acrobats, the dazzling chariot race, the agile bareback riders, the jivish bands of clowns, the wonderful leap of the gazelle.

And tomorrow, all will be gone. In a few days, all will be transported miles away, showing in some other city, to other thousands of eager spectators.

Truly, the circus is one of the most wonderful of American institutions, and well may people of other countries gaze in open admiration at the men who manage such a great institution as Ringling Brothers' circus.

THE BAND CONCERT PLEASED A CROWD

First of Summer Series Given by the Imperial Players, Delighted Listeners.

A large crowd gathered at the courthouse park last evening to listen to the first of the series of open air concerts to be given by the Imperial band this summer. Leader Al Knott wielded the baton and each number was applauded by the listeners. The program was well selected and the work of the musicians showed the results of painstaking practice.

SEVEN SHOTS ARE FIRED AT A WOMAN

Mrs. William Roder of Bear Creek,
Has a Narrow Escape From Death.

Mrs. William Roder of Bear Creek, near Milton, has been the victim of an attempted murder at the hands of her cousin, John W. Roder. He fired at her seven times, but only one shot took effect, striking her in the wrist and inflicting only a painful flesh wound. Roder disappeared after the shooting and no trace of him has been found. No motive is given for the shooting. Mrs. Roder was formerly Miss Daisy Leinhorp of Norwalk and is well known in this vicinity.

A NEW KIND OF LABOR LEADER

From Leslie's Monthly Magazine for July.
It is the "good fellow" who now holds the rod over unionism; quite as rigid, quite as exacting in his tribute and every whit as dangerous as Parks, Carvill or McCarthy. You would characterize him as a decent chap or a popular man, but in the vernacular of the labor world he is a "d— good fellow," and as such must be fought by his own followers.

Martin Murphy is the best specimen of his class I have ever found;—he is best because he is honest—because he is in truth a good friend to labor at all times—because he is in all an "honest grafter."

After giving up his search for work as hopeless Murphy inaugurated what is today recognized as one of the most unique features of organized labor—the council hall. It stands at the corner of Huron and Elliott streets, with Murphy's saloon on the ground floor, a fitting monument to an "honest grafter." It started, in a small way, with his saloon on the ground floor and less than a dozen leased rooms above. Struggling locals were offered quarters there, sometimes for nothing and again for a nominal sum. Now fifty locals meet there nightly, and a thousand men spend their evenings there—to their detriment and Murphy's profit—a greater part of the time in the saloon.

THE ADIRONDACK MOUNTAINS

The lakes and streams in the Adirondack Mountains are full of fish; the woods are inviting, the air is filled with health, and the nights are cool and restful. If you visit this region once, you will go there again. An answer to almost any question in regard to the Adirondacks will be found in No. 20 of the "Four-Track Series," The Adirondacks and How to Reach Them," sent free on receipt of a 2-cent stamp, by George H. Daniels, General Passenger Agent, Grand Central Station, New York.

MADISON GOLFERS COMING ON FRIDAY

Team of Sixteen Players Will Invade
Janesville to Measure Skill with Local Enthusiasts.

Secretary J. P. Baker of the Mississippi Golf Club received word from Madison that the Capital city team of sixteen members had accepted the invitation to play Janesville on the home links and would be here Friday if satisfactory. Mr. Baker hastened to inform them that they would be very welcome here. The local team, though several of the best players will be absent from the city at the time, are in good form and ready and willing to meet the Madisonians. The visitors will be entertained at dinner and luncheon at the club house and the contest will doubtless attract all the members of the club and their friends to the links on that day.

D. D. MANROSS RETURNS FROM THE ST. LOUIS FAIR

Says the Wisconsin Building Is Something of a Disappointment.

D. D. Manross of the commercial department of the high school returned last night from a visit at the St. Louis exposition. He was delighted with the great fair and says the heat was not oppressive. Mr. Manross visited all of the state buildings and was a trifle disappointed with that of Wisconsin, though it was very comfortable inside. He was on the Pike the night that three of the wild west show men were shot, but was not a witness of the shooting.

DIDN'T WANT THE STREET NARROWED

Property Owners on Prospect Avenue
Offer Objections to Curbing That Was Being Laid.

Work of laying the curbing in front of the residences of J. J. Watson and Henry Kronitz on Prospect avenue was stopped yesterday on the complaint of James Scott, Capt. Bucholz, and others who do not wish the street narrowed from the present width of 42 feet to thirty four. The expense of tearing up and rebuilding gutters is a considerable item for the property holders along that thoroughfare and they will argue vigorously against the move before the council at its next meeting. The curb line has not been established there as yet.

MARKET PRICES FOR HOUSEWIVES

WHAT TO BUY FOR THE TABLE
THESE DAYS.

GREAT VARIETY AT THE SHOPS

Green Things Are Predominant—
Fresh Vegetables in Profusion—
Home-Grown Strawberries.

A price list of the staple articles on the local market follows:

Fruits
Cherries, per box10c to 12c
Tomatoes, per pk.5c
Strawberries, per box10c
Bananas, per doz.10 to 20c
Oranges, per doz.25 to 50c
Pineapples, each10 to 15c
Lemons, per doz.20c
Apples, per pk.60c

Vegetables
Asparagus, per lb.12c
Lettuce, 2 bunches5c
Spinach, per pk.25c
Cucumbers, 3 for10c
Cabbages, per lb.4c
Wax beans, per lb.12c
Rhubarb, per lb.2c
Radishes, 2 bunches5c
Carrots, per bunch5c
Onions, 2 bunches5c
New Potatoes, per pk.15c
Sweet Greens, per pk.25c
Home-grown peas, per pk.55c

New Vegetables
Among the new vegetables on the market are beet greens and home-grown peas. The former sell for 25 cents per peck, and the peas for 55. The appearance of both, at such reasonable figures, is a welcome one, as they furnish valuable additions to the table at this season of the year.

The smaller vegetables, such as radishes, lettuce, onions, etc., are grown about Janesville, but the larger ones, as well as all the fruit, with the exception of strawberries, are imported from Michigan and adjoining states.

Home-Grown Strawberries
Practically nothing but home-grown strawberries are now sold on the market. A few are imported, to be sure, but the largest and freshest now sold are those grown in the home districts. The price is 10 cents a box, which price will, of course, decrease later in the season. The season for strawberries is very late. Last year they were on the market nearly a month earlier. The delay is, of course, due to the much retarded spring.

Hot-House Cucumbers
Two kinds of cucumbers are offered to the public. One kind, which is far inferior, sells for 3 for 10 cents, while the other is known as the hot-house cucumber and sells for 8 cents a peck. The latter is very fine and has freshness and ripeness quite lacking in the other.

Potatoes Still High
Potatoes still continue high. The demand for old potatoes is larger and can be supplied, and many people are obliged, in consequence, to buy the new ones. The reason the old ones are sold so extensively is that they are really in excellent condition, being far superior to what they were at the same time last year. The difference in price, too, between the old and the new is considerable, being 55 cents. It will not be long before the entire supply of old ones gives out, and new ones will be used exclusively after the fourth of July.

Kitchen Gardens Numerous
A surprisingly large number of Janesville people have little gardens at the rear of their houses, which are in pretty good condition at present, thanks to the warm weather and the rain. It is remarkable what a wealth of vegetables may be grown from one tiny patch of ground. Most of the families raise just enough for their own tables, and take both pride and pleasure in the little gardens which are watched far more closely than the city markets. A lettuce bed five feet square has supplied a certain household with crisp green lettuce for the last two weeks, while a miniature paragon bed obligingly grows just enough from day to day to supply the family dinner table with the tender delicacy.

FIRE A BLANK AT HIS BOARDER

William H. Lathers, Is Alleged to Have Resorted to Expedient to Get Rid of Robert Mullen.

Trouble for William H. Lathers who resides in Spring Brook may result from his alleged firing of a blank 32 calibre revolver cartridge at Robert Mullen, a boarder, yesterday. Mullen got into an argument with his landlord over the board which resulted in a fight and Lathers claims to have pulled the gun and fired on his erstwhile boarder just to frighten him away. In this respect he was successful as Mullen did not stop running until he reached Milwaukee street and had communicated his grievances to the police. The matter is being investigated.

Jersey City, June 21.—While the Rev. John J. Murphy, assistant rector of St. Bridget's Catholic church, was baptizing a baby nearly two tons of granite blocks forming the coping on a roof at the rear of the building slid off and crashed into a narrow yard east of the church.

TOBACCO TALK OF CROP CONDITIONS

What the Men Who Grow and Sell the Leaf Talk About These Days.

The week has been fairly busy and there has been moderate buying both of old and new leaf. This steady movement has reduced the quantity of tobacco in first hands to a small amount and the crop should be pretty well cleaned up before another is fairly started. Prices have shown some improvement, farmers no longer in such a hurry to make sales at any figure. But little of the new crop has yet been transplanted. Growers are working hard on the tobacco fields, but they will have all they can do to get them prepared in time. Shipments out of storage from Edgerton for the week amounted to 500 cases.

New York
The market is as dull as ever. There has been a certain amount of riding, which, however, has resulted in no transactions. A few small shipments have been made from warehouses. As the season advances the reduction in storage becomes more marked. Around Memphis many farmers are forsaking tobacco for potatoes and sugar beets.

Ohio
There has been considerable riding on the part of Eastern buyers and a good amount of business has been resulted. Planting of the new crop is being vigorously prosecuted. The plants are small and the weather cool, but a good start has been made.

New England
A moderate number of small sales has been recorded and the greater part of the 1903 crop has passed out of first hands at prices ranging from 9 cents to 12 cents, though there have been sales in some districts as high as 13 cents. The feeling over the prospects for this year's crop is optimistic. A considerable portion of the crop has been transplanted under highly favorable conditions, and many farmers declare that the great depth to which the ground was frozen last winter and the wetness of the past season should tend to produce better results this year with the same amount of fertilizer. It is too early yet to give an accurate account of the acreage, but reports from the different sections would seem to indicate that there will not be much, if any, reduction. Considerably less tobacco will be grown under the shade, it is true, but it seems probable that there will be a proportionate increase in the crop growth in the open. There is a marked tendency everywhere to grow broadleaf in place of Havana. Up to date, the only dark spot on the picture is the news that in some sections the cut worms are somewhat more numerous than usual.

OF STRAWBERRIES A PROMISE OF MANY

Home Grown Crop Being Brought into Market—Some of Best From Milton.

Some of the finest strawberries of the season are now being brought in to the local markets. The home-grown crop is just beginning to be harvested and the Illinois berries will not be required much longer. At Milton, Milton Junction, and other districts of the county the finest and largest crops known for many years will be picked. The rain yesterday was of immense benefit to the berry plants and this week's offerings may be expected to be unusually large and luscious for that reason.

POST FORFEITS FOR BIG FIGHT

Jeffries and Munroe Comply With Conditions of New Match.

San Francisco, June 21.—Forfeits of $2,500 each were posted by Jeffries and Munroe Monday to bind their match. Pollock acted for Munroe, while Eugene Vancourt attended to "Jeff's" interests. The money was placed in the hands of Harry Corbett. By the terms of the agreement this money is to be forfeited in case either of the principals fails to appear in the ring on the date to be selected for the fight. Manager Corbett also posted $2,500 with Corbett as a guarantee that the Yosemite club would perform all of its agreements with the fighters. Both men are bound not to enter a ring contest until after their fight. Munroe will probably accept a theatrical engagement for a month. "Jeff" will take a good rest before resuming his efforts to get into shape for a fight.

Cleveland, O., June 21.—Two persons were burned to death and six others injured in a fire that partially destroyed a saloon and boarding house at 428 Columbus street. Twelve or fifteen persons were aroused from sleep to find the place wrapped in flames and several men and women jumped from the windows in order to escape.

STUDENT'S FALL BRINGS DEATH

Geneva, June 21.—Some searchers through a crevasse in the Swiss Alps found two students named Keller and Krebs lying at the bottom of a deep hole. A third student, Fauchonnet, who was climbing with them, managed to check his fall and reached a point of safety.

Formation of unions among women will be encouraged in Iowa. During the past year these organizations increased more than 100 per cent.

Statistics collected in Germany have shown that 28 per cent. of the accidents caused by machinery used for industrial purpose, such as manufacturing, were due to the defects in the machines and to lack of proper safeguards.

Memphis (Tenn.) electrical workers are out. They quit work when the bosses refused to sign the new wage scale. The men ask for an advance of 50 cents a day, making their wage scale $3.50 for eight hours.

The Northern Pacific management at Livingston, Mont., has about decided to inaugurate a change in the number of hours constituting a work day. Hereafter ten hours constituted a day's work and this is to be changed to nine.

International Longshoremen, Marine and Transport Workers' Association will hold its thirteenth annual convention at Milwaukee, Wis., beginning July 11. Over 100 new locals have been added during the past year.

Marble slate and soapstone workers at Boston, Mass., have submitted a request to the bosses that wages be increased 25 cents a day, or from a minimum of $2.25 to $2.50 from June 1st.

Japan furnishes one-twelfth of the raw silk consumed in the world—about 9,000,000 pounds. The war is not likely to effect the production, as all the work is done by women and girls.

Roscoe Conkling's Big Fee

(From "Success.")
It is said that, one day, when Roscoe Conkling was beginning to attain some measure of success, he dropped into the office of Charles O'Connor, of New York, then one of the leaders of the bar.

"What's the trouble?" asked the latter, as Conkling excitedly paced the floor.

"I've just been subjected to the worst insult I have ever received. This is the first time a client ever objected to my fee."

"You know I defended Gibbons for arson, and put in some tremendous work for him. He was convicted at the trial, but we couldn't help it, and I took the case to the superior court and we lost there, then on to the supreme court and that affirmed the conviction and he has been given ten years. Now my fee only amounted to three thousand dollars, and the second actually had the audacity to grumble about it, saying 'It's too high.' What do you think of that for impudence?"

"Well," said O'Connor, slowly, "of course you did a lot of work and three thousand dollars is not a big fee, but to be frank with you, Mr. Conkling, my opinion, founded on mature consideration, is that he might have been convicted for less money."

ON THE REPUBLICAN SIDE.

The Gazette was one of the first papers in the state to endorse the nominees of the republican convention held at the Opera house in Madison, May 19. This convention, and its action, was endorsed by the Republican National Committee last Friday, making it the recognized republican party of the state. That this action will be ratified by the committee, as well as by the convention, is not a question of doubt. It will be of interest to readers of the Gazette to know what other republican papers in the state are saying, and a few of many editorial comments follow:

PARTY STANDARD BEARERS.

The LaFollette claimants for seats in the national convention as delegates-at-large are excluded because the body pretending to be the Republican state convention which chose them was irregular. Spooner, Quarles, Babcock and Baensch are adjudged entitled to seats as delegates-at-large because they present credentials from the regular state convention of the Wisconsin Republicans. It follows that all the acts of the LaFollette convention held in the gymnasium at Madison by which that body essayed to speak for the Republican party of the state of Wisconsin were null and void. The body speaking and acting with authority on behalf of the Republicans of the state was the convention held in the Fuller Opera House. The state ticket headed by S. A. Cook is the regular Republican ticket. The state central committee of which Theodore Goldin is chairman is the regular Republican committee.

Whatever is said or done against these standard-bearers of Republicanism in Wisconsin will be acts against the Republican party. The unanimous decision at Chicago has tended to clear the air—Evening Wisconsin.

GIVEN A FAIR HEARING.

Nomination of Cook Also Regular. Fond du Lac Commonwealth: The republicanism of the national committee can not be questioned. Its members are representative republicans from the several states in the union. It is not their business to take part in factional contests that may develop in particular states. When contests occur, as they do occur from time to time, they are settled on their merit. In this particular contest the greatest fairness was shown. Mr. Payne, who, as chairman, might have presided over the deliberations of the committee, voluntarily resigned the chair to Senator Scott in order that there might be no grounds for charging unfairness. The LaFollette faction was shown every courtesy and given every opportunity to present their evidence. Now that they have been ruled out they have nothing to do but submit or go on record as bolters again.

The action of the republican national committee in seating the delegation headed by Senator Spooner, while not deciding finally which is the regular republican ticket in Wisconsin, points the way. If the election of the Spooner delegation was regular, then the nomination of S. A. Cook, as well as his associates on the ticket, was regular. The evidence presented to the national committee in the form of a brief will be presented to the Supreme court, when the time comes, and if it proved adequate in one instance there is reason to believe that it will prove adequate in another.

It was an evil day for LaFollette when the governor and his associates decided to rule the late state convention, no matter what the cost. Tactics such as were followed at Madison last month may win for a little while, but are sure, sooner or later, to result in the undoing of their authors.

END OF LA FOLLETTE.

S. A. Cook Will Be the Next Governor
Menasha Record: This will be the end of LaFollette and LaFolletteism. Bolt he will and declare the entire nation prejudiced, bought up and owned by the powers that are not represented by him, the bold and sickening cry of the political outcast whose hand is against every man who is or deserves to be. He has through his henchmen threatened the entire nation and he will steer his misguided followers into rebellion against the party that has given them all they ever had. While Robert M. LaFollette can run his fingers through his pompadour and shake the slender hand at the end of an agitated arm and raise his eloquent voice to the weighted atmosphere he will do his best to be a thorn in the side of the republican party in this state and like Bryan, for a time he will make trouble for the men who are searching for the best paths, but he will in time become a nuisance and be not heeded.

It is hard to see where the threatened bolt of the defeated faction will work harm to the republicans. The democrats take great glee and think they have us where they have been spending so many cold election after the effect of such a decision followed by the effect a supreme court decision always has on the American people, will be as to turn the great bulk of the republicans to the regular ticket and it will be a very hard task for the democrats to overcome the big majority of 100,000 given McKinley four years ago, especially when a large amount of LaFollette's personal following is drawn from the democratic party.

It is a fairly safe guess that this decision means that the next governor of Wisconsin will be Samuel A. Cook.

THE PARTY OR THE MAN.

Wisconsin is a sane, law-abiding commonwealth. The people of the state love decency and fair play. They can respect a defeated candidate if he takes his defeat in a manly way. But one who runs amuck like a mad dog, snapping right and left and poisoning everything he touches, is not a spectacle to win admiration.

There has been an abundance of talk about the strength of Gov. LaFollette with "the people." Some of his followers appear to believe that he is greater than the republican party. The time is come for him to demonstrate that fact or retire to the obscurity into which other "greater than his party" men have gone before. He has in effect withdrawn from the republican party, but doubtless he will have an opportunity to make a showing of his personal strength.

He has permitted—or ordered—his official organ to repudiate and insult the national committee. The national convention will be accorded the same treatment if he considers it worth his trouble. He will go into the campaign as an independent candidate at war with the party with which he always has claimed to be identified, and which repeatedly has honored him. He has his own personal organization, his personal platform, and his personal ambition as political assets. With these he will appeal to the voters and the people of Wisconsin will decide whether the historic republican party or Robert M. LaFollette is the greater.—Milwaukee Sentinel.

END OF THE FACTIONAL FIGHT

Get Together as True Republicans
Oshkosh Northwestern: Plain decency and a wholesome regard for higher authority, which is the foundation and basis of all organization, would signify that the only reasonable course for the governor to take under such conditions would be to discreetly withdraw from the contest and urge his associates to follow the same plan. However, if they prefer to leave the regular republican party and appear as independent candidates on an independent ticket, that is their privilege. Of course, however, by doing so they will practically sever all connections and affiliations with the regular republican party, and no other construction can be placed on such a course if attempted by them.

That the result of the contest will be hailed with much satisfaction by a large majority of the people of this state goes without question. The strife and bitterness in Wisconsin have already lasted long enough, and indeed too long, either for the good of the republican party or the good and welfare of the state itself. Nor will there be any arrogant boasting on the part of the republicans who won out in this contest, or any inclination to "rub it in" to the other side which has met with defeat. On the other hand, loyalty and sincerity will lead every honest member of the party to show a spirit of cancellation and fraternal good fellowship, conditions that have been so conspicuously absent on the part of the governor himself while his term of leadership has lasted.

With a calm review of the situation, and a full appreciation of the great need of harmony and united action in the coming national campaign, conviction will come to the great majority of the republican party in this state that it is time to end the factional fight and get together under the one universal banner of the republicanism. And this will be the result, which will also spell success to the republican party, both state and national.

ON THE FENCE.

Harper's Weekly, while claiming to be a republican journal, has long been noted for its waverling policy, which was never more pronounced than during the present campaign. The publication is largely under the influence of Wall street, and the fact is generally recognized that this influence is antagonistic to President Roosevelt.

Ever since his interference with the coal strike, and the operations of the Northern Securities company, Eastern capitalists have had a knife out for him, and Harper's Weekly has taken occasion to ridicule him at every opportunity. The Wall Street Journal, after commenting on the policy of the paper, recently said:

"Turning to another page of Harper's Weekly editorial department, we find that it makes itself merry over the remark attributed to Professor James Bryce at a dinner in London, to the effect that President Roosevelt was the greatest man who has occupied the Presidential chair since Washington. On this Harper's Weekly comments as follows. 'When Whistler was told that he was the greatest painter since Velasquez, his reply was, 'why drag in Velasquez?' So President Roosevelt might well say to Mr. Bryce, 'why drag in Washington?' Of Mr. Roosevelt Harper's Weekly says that he has remarkable qualities and has done remarkable things. 'But,' it asks, 'can he think anything clear through? His mind is quick; how profound is it? What does Mr. Bryce think of him as a bulwark of the Constitution?' All of this shows how hard republican papers, which are closely tied up to certain financial interests, are finding it to get around to the point of supporting the Republican candidate for President. They have not yet forgiven President Roosevelt for his action against the Northern Securities Companies and his interference in the coal strike, so they are continually praising Judge Parker and telling what a fine, safe man he is, and continually getting in sly digs at Mr. Roosevelt. Their state of mind, if Judge Parker should be defeated and the Democratic convention should be controlled by the more radical faction of the party, may be left to the imagination."

The Rockford Star published a 20 page paper last Sunday devoting one eighth page section to Janesville. The edition is a good one and evidences commendable enterprise on the part of the publishers.

The Committee on Credentials will report on the Wisconsin case Wednesday and the Republican National Convention may be called upon for a final verdict Thursday. It is to be hoped that Governor LaFollette will appear before the convention in his own behalf.

There will be no middle ground for either newspapers or men in the coming campaign. Even the congressmen from Racine will be obliged to get off the fence.

Mr. Strange of Oshkosh accuses the National Committee of being under the influence of railway corporations. There was a time when Mr. Strange seemed to have a little influence in the same direction. $55 a day for passenger trains is called a reasonable price.

There is but one republican party in the nation, and that is represented by the convention now in session in Chicago. There can be but one republican party in the state and it remains for the republicans to get together and train under one banner.

The difference between republicanism and LaFolletteism is the difference between national endorsement and a handful of factional contestants. The former will endure while the latter is bound to go down to defeat.

PRESS COMMENT

Milwaukee Sentinel: It will be noticed that Reformer Hunter is doing the loudest talking about "steals" and things of that kind, but the books of his office will be examined with those of other departments next winter.

Abbotsford Clarion: This notion of a compromise between the warring republican factions in Wisconsin may be all right to talk about, but would it not be better for the future peace and harmony of the party to have the matter settled at once and for all by the courts?

Green Bay Gazette: This means the beginning of the end of LaFolletteism in Wisconsin. The power of the depot is broken. Conservative republicanism is given the recognition and approval from the national party and will hereafter be recognized by the people of Wisconsin as the regular. The court of final resort—the people—will sustain this decision in November.

Gillett Times: Mr. Cook is a republican, and his republicanism is rooted. It was as a republican that he was elected to congress in 1894, and as a member of the national legislature he stood sturdily for sound money and the protective tariff, and all other cardinal principles which distinguish the republican party. Yet while always a consistent republican, he has never been unfair to men of other party creeds. He is a good citizen, and a good man, and inspires confidence among all who are familiar with his career in private and public life.

Kenosha News: The action of the national committee taken after a full and fair hearing of all the evidence, shows that the convention held by the regular republicans which sent the delegation headed by Spooner to the national convention and nominated S. A. Cook for governor, had a clear majority of the properly certified and duly accredited delegates. The unanimous vote of the national committee will go far towards clearing up the situation in the state, and all true republicans will be willing to abide by its decision.

Appleton Post: After a full hearing given to both sides, the republican national committee yesterday unanimously decided in favor of the nomination of Senators Spooner and Quarles, Congressman Babcock, and Judge Baensch to seats in the national convention. Thus also the highest republican authority has decided that the convention which elected these delegates at large was the legal body, and that the state ticket which it nominated, headed by Mr. Cook, is the legal republican ticket. Thus, moreover, the opprobrious term "rumpers" is officially written in big letters across the ticket headed by Robert M. LaFollette. The arch factionist has still resources for mischief, but they are not as great as they were before yesterday. Indeed, he has been deprived of the power either to rule or ruin.

Stanley Republican: In the statement of their case before the national convention, the LaFollette republicans say that the republicans who took part in the Fuller opera house convention have been opposed to the republican party in Wisconsin for many years. We always supposed that John C. Spooner, J. V. Quarles, J. W. Babcock, E. S. Minor, S. S. Barney, S. A. Cook, Emil Baensch, W. Spence, Max Jeffris, E. R. Hicks, and the hundreds of other able men present had been the backbone of the party in Wisconsin for many years, but it seems we were mistaken. According to that statement, R. M. LaFollette, Speaker of the Assembly, Game Warden Tracy, Bryan Lewis, the Stranger, and Big Mike of Milwaukee, all of whom were prominent figures in the gymnasium convention, are the only sham-pure, name-blown-in-the-bottle republicans in the state.

BEESLY PAID TO BE FREED NOW

CROOK ARRESTED IN ROCKFORD
SETTLES ALL CLAIMS.

HIS WIFE GOT GOODLY SUM

It is Believed That Claims of Beloit People Were Overlooked at the Last Minute.

John Beesley, the carpenter with the great wealth, who was arrested in Rockford on several charges of thievery, has settled all the claims on him including several from Beloit where he "worked" several years ago, and has made good his escape to avoid any further trouble.

Five warrants had been sworn out against him and he was brought up in county court to answer to them. He pleaded guilty to each of the five charges on an agreement that a fine of $100 and costs would be assessed on each count. This made a total of about $500 for him to settle and a small jail sentence was added.

In the circuit court the injunction secured by his wife was dissolved on the payment of a sum of $15,000, said to be half of his estate.

On these matters being arranged the courts released him and he at once left Rockford, probably to go to England to remain. His case has been a strange one in many respects. Beesley was not a pleasant man in his family and his wife is not sorry that he has gone away. She has secured a competence and will be able to live in comfort the rest of her life. The fact that Beesley had practically $20,000 in money when he was supposed to be a poor man was a great surprise and that he should carry $5,000 of it about with him, was another strange feature.

It is supposed that he was on the eve of going to England when his arrest came and that he intended to remain away. He went to England once before when in trouble but returned secretly and those he had injured were unaware of his residence in this country. Had they known of his presence here they would have been after him long ago.

CHIEF HOGAN IS COMING HOME SOON

Writes That He Will Leave St. Paul the Last of the Week—Temporary Retirement Not Lawful.

If there is any movement for retiring Chief of Police John W. Hogan on full pay until he shall have recovered from his present illness and for making Officer John Brown chief of the department in the interim, it can come to nothing in the opinion of City Attorney Burpee. It is certain that both citizens and city council would be glad to take such steps if they were permitted to do so by law—which, however, they are not. It is simply a case where the law in its endeavor to safeguard communities from possible corruption in the shape of sinecures, works an injury to those who are justly deserving of city's consideration. The only thing that can be done, so far as the city attorney can see, is to increase the force and have Officer Brown continue as acting chief. Mayor Hutchinson by virtue of the power given his office in section 2 of chapter 3 of the city charter has already appointed Tom Morrissey as a temporary policeman. This appointment will have to be made and confirmed at each succeeding meeting of the council. Chief Hogan who has been taking treatment at St. Joseph's hospital in St. Paul writes that he is improving and expects to leave for Janesville the latter part of this week. Mrs. Hogan will go to St. Paul to meet him Thursday night.

SNEAK THIEF IN VAN KIRK HOME

Was Seen to Enter House Through a Window This Morning and Neighbors Investigated.

About the time the parade was starting this morning some sneak thief effected an entrance into C. N. VanKirk's residence at 101 North First street through a window on the west side of the house. Mrs. VanKirk and daughter had gone down town to view the parade. Neighbors saw the man prowling about the house and made an investigation. The front doorbell was rung and the thief made a hasty exit from the house. Mr. VanKirk and the police were then notified. An examination of the house showed that things had been turned upside down in several of the rooms but nothing of value was missing save a pair of sleeve buttons belonging to Mr. VanKirk.

CHINA SHOWER FOR MISS BUOB

Given Last Evening at the Home of Misses Blunk, North Jackson St.

—Twenty-five Ladies Present.
One of the prettiest and most unique pre-nuptial events ever given in this city occurred at the home of the Misses Blunk on North Jackson street last evening. Misses Blunk, Mamie Gagan, Mrs. Alfred Jerg, and Mrs. Daniel Skelley gave a china shower for Miss Lillian Buob whose marriage to Mr. Behnke of Milwaukee is announced for June 27. There were about twenty-five ladies in the party and an enjoyable evening was spent in various amusements. Delicious refreshments were served during the evening. The bride-to-be received many beautiful pieces of china as the result of last evening's event.

NOT AS BIG AS NONE SUCH BROS'

This Is the Opinion of the Famous Show Here on July Fourth.

Ringlings' is a big show and has a wonderful show," said Col. Thomas None Such, as he stood on the street corner this morning and saw the parade pass the Myers house. "But they haven't got a single attraction that can equal ours. Why, when we start our parade on the Fourth the streets will be too small to hold the crowds and the exhibits will be finer and more unique than Ringlings' ever thought of being. Our great Goo Go, the only one of its kind ever born in captivity, will be worth the thirty-two elephants that marched demurely down the street.

"Then we have the greatest aggregation of freaks that were found in the bad lands of North Dakota. Lions and lionesses in open cages are all right for the general public but wait until you see our great striped mules and wonderful gymnasts who do all manner of stunts on the streets that Ringlings could not begin to equal. Why, we will have people in our parade that Ringlings' immense show could not hire to go with their show."

NAME NEW-EDIFICE "GARFIELD SCHOOL"

Board Met Last Night and Discussed Plans of Proposed Building—Coal Contract Awarded to Will Sager.

At a meeting of the school board last evening it was decided that the new edifice to be erected at the corner of Jackson and Main streets should be called the "Garfield School." Plans for the new building were discussed but no definite action could be taken. The work will be prosecuted, however, as rapidly as possible. It is hardly probable that the building can be ready for occupancy by September 1. The bids for furnishing the coal for the schools during the coming season were opened and that of Will Sager for $8.45 a ton was found to be the lowest. The contract was therefore awarded to him. The bids ranged from $8.45 to $3.55.

CITY WAS WELL POLICED TODAY

Four Special Officers Sworn In for Duty—Detective Ryan of Ringling Shows Helped Keep Lookout.

Janesville was well policed today. Acting Chief of Police John Brown and Detective Ryan of the Ringling show drove up and down the line of the parade on the lookout for any possible disturbance. Four special police in citizen's clothes were stationed at the street crossings. They were T. L. Atchison, Turnkey Roy Graves, Bert Lincoln, and T. F. Nolan. In addition to these Officer Benke and Officer Fanning who are on duty nights were pressed into service and Officer Wallace Cochrane was also on duty. Chief of Police, Burgen and Assistant Little of Rockford were also visiting in the city.

UMBRELLA MENDER WAS SENTENCED

To One Year in State Prison on His Plea of "Guilty" in Municipal Court This Morning.

Williams, the umbrella mender, who was arrested in Beloit recently for luring a five year old boy from his home decided this morning to change his plea of "not guilty" to "guilty" and appeared before Judge Pfiehl in municipal court. He was sentenced to one year in the state prison at Waupun.

DEATH SUMMONS MRS. MARY KELLY

Widow of the Late John Kelly Died at Her Second Ward Home This Morning.

This morning at seven-thirty o'clock death summoned Mrs. Mary Kelly, widow of the late John Kelly, aged eighty years, at her home, 108 Caroline street. Deceased has been a resident of this city for the past fifty years, and had the respect and esteem of a large number of friends and acquaintances, who will be pained to learn of her death. Mrs. Kelly had been ill but a few weeks and her death was due to infirmities of old age. She leaves to mourn her loss one daughter, Mrs. Madison of Chicago. Notice of the funeral will be given later.

A CLEVER "GRAFTER"

Some unknown man of portly stature who has been accustomed to ride on the interurban and both railroads worked a smooth game on two conductors. While coming up from Rockford he approached a conductor and said his name was Lane of the firm of Bonacker & Lane of Janesville and by lack of foresight he had run short of money. The conductor willingly lent the two dollars and told the conductor to stop at the bakery in a day or two and get the money. But when the conductor saw the real Mr.

Lane he didn't find his man. This same game was recently worked on a conductor of the C. M. & St. P. Ry. and he found out on Saturday night that he was easy.

SOLVE PROBLEM OF THE FUTURE

Two Newark Men Settle the Much Mooted Question As to Strawberries.

Two men in the town of Newark have solved the problem of avoiding a strawberry famine. They have conceived the idea of irrigating the beds, and have put the theory to the test with a prospect of good results. They say that they will have elegant berries for three weeks yet, while their neighbors will have to go without.

Bernard Grunke and August Beckman are the men who are trying the irrigation scheme. They started their No. 6 rotary pump last week, and are satisfied with the results thus far. The pump is run by the water power of the creek, and taking the water from the creek throws 420 gallons a minute to the highest point of the strawberry beds. From there it runs down between the rows, irrigating about two acres in all.

Mr. Grunke said that he had been carrying water in tanks for a week, and in this way had kept them fresh. He says he has never had such fine fruit as he is getting now and with the new arrangement expects to get for the next three weeks.

INVENTOR BATES MUST LIVE UP TO CONTRACT

Court Holds That Woven Wire Machine Profits Are Property of Company Buying Patent.

Joliet, Ill., June 21.—Judgment for $55,800 was entered in the circuit court here against Albert J. Bates and in favor of the Bates Machine company. Bates was the inventor and patentee of the machines for making woven wire fence, the use of which has become general throughout the country and which has during the past few years revolutionized the fence industry.

The Bates company, in which the defendant is a stockholder, claimed prior rights to all the fruits of Bates' inventive genius under a contract. After Bates, in conjunction with a man named C. E. Robinson, had perfected this machine this contract was not recognized by the inventor and the patent was sold to the Consolidated Steel and Wire company for a sum in the neighborhood of $100,000.

In the decision rendered this contract was held valid and judgment given for Bates' share in the sale, together with interest.

BEET CULTURE IN THE COUNTY

LA FAYETTE MYERS WRITES OF PAST WEEK.

GOOD ADVICE TO GROWERS

Cultivation Should Now Be Finished, To Avoid Letting the Weeds Gain Any Headway.

By La Fayette Myers.
From all indications nothing more could be desired in the present condition of the sugar beet crops. In general the fields are looking nicely, free of weeds, well cultivated and in a great many cases already thinned out. To many growers this thinning is a hard proposition, but it should not be. It is a particular job and demands a careful hand as it is the most important of all the cultivation and care of the crop. You will find that it will be quicker and more easy work to do this thinning before the weeds get too large in growth. They should be thinned as soon as they commence to show the fourth leaf and a healthy growth. One man with an ordinary garden hoe can lunch for 3 of 4 boys, but very many nowadays have the bunching and thinning done by the same person, and claim the results are just as good and at a little less expense.

The past week has been very favorable and most every grower is taking advantage of the hot dry weather, killing the weeds and grass in the beet field with the hoe and cultivator. There should be no excuse for a weedy or grassy field now.

During this dry spell the cultivator should be worked overtime. Do not cultivate deep; just deep enough to cut out the weeds and leave a dust mulch of about an inch. This will help preserve the moisture in the ground, while if you cultivate deep the ground will dry out quick and the plants will suffer. Cultivate often; every cultivation helps to bring up the moisture to just where it is wanted.

The late planted fields should be rolled before cultivating, however do this rolling late in the afternoon when the plants have become wilted a little.

Reports from the out laying stations show the crops at Milton, Whitewater, Deerfield, Helenville and Fort Atkinson in fine shape, Deerfield especially.

In general practically the greater part of all the beet fields will be thinned by the last of the week or the first part of next and the most important and particular work will then be over. To those who are behind with this work we would advise them to hurry a little as this is just the kind of weather wanted and you should take advantage of it, and have your field thinned before the next rain comes, June 20, 1904.

CHAPTER V.

THE GOVERNOR OF A PRISON AND THE GIRL HARVEY IRONS LOVES.

OLONE JURNIEFF, the governor of the prison at Tills, sat in his office, which was a portion of the apartments allotted to himself and family. An open letter lay beside him on a table. A perplexed look was on his face. He was a cold man, usually imperturbable, but something in the letter had disturbed him.

"My the devil take that American!" he said as he picked up the letter again. "We think he is in Paris or New York, and now he turns up with his confounded windmills in Astrabad. What is worse, he is going to the big fair at Nijni Novgorod. By the gods, he is enough to turn the entire secret police upside down! Undoubtedly he intends to meet Alma at the fair, as he did last year. But, thanks to her father's wisdom, I have her safe here where she will hear no more of that fellow's sne words."

He touched a bell and an orderly came to him.

"Has a letter been written or sent from my family apartments today?"

"None, your excellency."

"Has any been received?"

"None, your excellency."

"You must be doubly watchful! I have trusted you thus far; I will trust you further. You understand the circumstances, do you not?"

"I think I understand, your excellency. There was a bad, wicked man—one of those Americans who care for nobody."

"There was indeed—not only was, but is. As you are aware, he and my niece, Mlle. Alma, met each other in St. Petersburg, where the fellow was selling some miserable American invention to pump water with windmills. Perhaps the machines were good enough, for he sold a lot of them. But these two fools must fall in love when my brother, General Jurnieff, had already planned upon having a prince for a son-in-law. But the young people outwitted him and met at the big fair at Nijni Novgorod last year. After that we sent the American out of Russia, telling him if he ever returned we would look upon him as having forfeited the right to his country's protection and send him to Siberia or have him shot."

"That kept him out, excellency."

"Not a bit of it! I have just received a letter from my brother, who has heard from one of our secret agents at Paris, that the American is now at Astrabad, in Persia, selling his wares, and has said he was going to the big fair at Nijni Novgorod, which soon begins."

"He is a courage—he is a fool, excellency."

"You might have finished your sentence. He is a courageous fool. But, thank heaven, I have the young lady safe here in Tills. If he expects to meet her at Novgorod, he will be disappointed. I must send word at once to Nijni Novgorod and Astrabad. It may be possible to intercept him on the way."

The orderly bowed and was dismissed. A few minutes later a higher officer entered. It was Captain Orskoff.

"I salute you, colonel."

"I am glad to see you, captain. You appear to be happy. Has anything new been discovered concerning the missing Bartelkis and his daughter?"

"I am glad to say we have recovered Koura. We have captured the two who were taking her away. They will be brought here and locked up to await trial."

"Then Bartelkis was not really trying to sell his daughter?"

"We cannot make head or tail of it. Koura knows little, but believes in her father's innocence. Surely he did not need the money. Moreover, he cannot be found."

"Is that rascally Turk, Hafiz Effendi, in the city?"

"Yes. I have placed him under arrest."

"If it was a slave selling affair, Hafiz had a finger in it. He is a shrewd rascal. But who was it you captured, and where?"

"Lieutenant Thott, with the gunboat stationed near the Kur, ran down in doubtfully trying to get the poor girl on board a strange craft—a black hull. I think she belongs to the ameer of Bokhara."

"So you found the girl on board the Turk?"

"Yes, and also an American, who, I am sure, had a hand in the affair. What his motive was, whether he was trying to get Koura off to marry her or was acting as an agent for the ameer, I don't know. But he was arrested and brought here. You will see him soon."

"What name did he give?"

"He gave the name, I believe, Irons. Said he was going to Nijni Novgorod to sell pumps and windmills."

Colonel Jurnieff nearly fell off his chair. He stared at Orskoff till that officer thought the governor of the prison was dazed.

"Do you know him? Did the lieutenant do wrong?"

"Do I know him! Now we have him in our hands we will finish him. Do I know him! We have watched him for a year, but he is like a rat. So he was stealing Bartelkis and his daughter?"

"I don't say he was stealing Bartelkis. We can find no trace of him."

"Call that orderly."

The orderly came in again and saluted.

"Alexander, that man of whom we spoke is under arrest. He was not content with following one of the most beautiful of Russian girls, but it was he who abducted the daughter of Bartelkis."

"Has she been found?" asked the orderly, forgetting his manners in his intense interest.

"Yes, thank God! But her father is yet missing. We shall know more after we have heard them all. You understand your duties. I charge you to be shrewd and faithful. Go!"

The orderly, Alexander Borge, walked through the corridors of the prison with lagging steps. An officer passed him.

"My captain, I am not well," he said.

"May I be relieved for an hour?"

The captain nodded and walked on into the office. Alexander hurried to another portion of the prison, where there were rooms luxuriously fitted up. He knocked cautiously at one, giving a certain signal. A young Russian girl opened the door.

"Alexander! You not on duty? What has happened?"

"I got relieved for an hour to tell you something for Mlle. Alma."

"Quick! In here!"

She ushered him into a small storage closet and listened breathlessly.

"The colonel charged me again with my duties," he said. "He had received a letter from his brother that the young American whom we could not trace was in Astrabad, Persia. He was to go from there to Nijni Novgorod to meet Mlle. Alma, as last year. Later I learned that he is under arrest for taking away Koura Bartelkis."

"It is impossible. He has not been in Tills."

"I know, but that is the charge. He was on the boat that took her away. Would you tell Mlle. Alma?"

"Yes, certainly. I must tell her everything. I believe this is a false charge got up to put the American in prison."

"Perhaps. But I must be off. I will watch. I will return if anything is new."

In another suit of apartments a lovely young girl, with pale face and long eyes, sat listlessly looking from a window. The girl whom Borge had just left entered.

"Marie, what is the excitement in the streets?" asked Mlle. Alma. "Something unusual, even for fair time, has happened. One girl, one of the few friends I have made—I have always met her when making purchases at her father's bazaar—is already missing. I hope the Turks have not found a way to outwit the law."

"Koura Bartelkis is found, mademoiselle."

"Then that must be the cause of the excitement. Oh, when will this cruel exile come to an end? Marie, suppose Alexander should be sent away where you could never see him."

"I should cry, mademoiselle."

"Cry? Tears alone will not unite lovers. If they would, I could shed rivers. It must be grand to live where love is not a thing for prison walls."

"But you are not a prisoner, mademoiselle."

"Am I not? I have the privilege of driving out in my uncle's carriage. But am I not watched constantly? Is not my uncle forever giving orders that no letters shall be allowed to reach me? Could I send a letter even if I knew where he was?"

With a burst of sorrow Marie fell at the feet of her mistress.

"Oh, mademoiselle! I have such bad news for you! I would not tell, but I know you wish to hear all. He is here!"

"Here! You mean M. Irons—here in Tills?"

"Yes, mademoiselle, and will soon be in this very prison."

Alma's fingers clutched at her bosom, and she half rose from her chair, but, swaying, fell back.

"Will you have water, mademoiselle?"

"No! I want news. How—where did they take him? Is it true? Did Alexander tell you?"

"Yes. It seems he was on the same boat. They say he was taking away Koura Bartelkis."

"I do not believe it! No! I know he loves me. It was not M. Irons."

"Perhaps not, mademoiselle. But we shall soon know."

"Yes, but my heart will break with apprehension. If they have taken him, after warning him to keep out of Russia, they will charge him with anything to punish him. You must help me, Marie. Good, brave, faithful girl! And Alexander too! O God, help him! Preserve him from their vengeance and cruelty!"

She broke down under the strain and slipped to the floor. Resting her arms on her chair and burying her face in them, she burst into spasmodic sobs.

"They will kill her, between them!" muttered the maid.

CONVENTION A GREAT SCENE

Secretary Root's Speech.

The responsibility of government rests upon the Republican Party. The complicated machinery through which the 30,000,000 people of the United States govern themselves, answers to no single will. The composite government devised by the framers of the Constitution to meet the conditions of national life more than a century ago, requires the willing cooperation of many minds, the combination of many factors, in every forward step for the general welfare.

The President at Washington with his Cabinet, the 90 Senators representing 45 sovereign States, the 386 Representatives in Congress, are required to reach concurrent action upon a multitude of questions involving varied and conflicting interests and requiring investigation, information, discussion and reconciliation of views. From all our vast territory with its varieties of climate and industry, from all our great population active in progress and commerce, and social and intellectual and moral life to a degree never before attained by any people, difficult problems press upon the National Government.

Within the past five years more than sixty-six thousand bills have been introduced in Congress. Some method of selection must be followed. There must be some preliminary process to ascertain the general tenor of public judgment upon the principles to be applied in government, and some organization and recognition of leadership which shall bring a legislative majority and the executive into accord in the practical application of those principles; or effective government becomes impossible.

The practical governing instinct of our people has adapted the machinery devised in the 18th to the conditions of the 20th Century by the organization of national political parties. In them men join for the promotion of a few cardinal principles upon which they agree. For the sake of those principles they lay aside their differences upon less important questions. To represent those principles and to carry on the government in accordance with them, they present to the people candidates whose competency and loyalty they approve. The people by their choice of candidates indicate the principles and methods which they wish followed in the conduct of their government. They do not merely choose between men; they choose between parties—between the principles they profess, the methods they follow, the trustworthiness of their professions, the inferences to be drawn from the records of their past, the general weight of character of the body of men who will be brought into participation in government by their ascendancy.

When the course of the next administration is but half done the Republican Party will have completed the first half century of its national life. Of the eleven administrations since the first election of Abraham Lincoln, nine—covering a period of thirty-six years—have been under Republican presidents. For the greater part of that time, the majority in each House of Congress has been Republican. History affords no parallel in any age or country for the growth in national greatness and power and honor, the wide diffusion of the comforts of life, the uplifting of the great mass of the people above the hard conditions of poverty, the common opportunity for education and individual advancement, the universal possession of civil and religious liberty, the protection of property and security for the rewards of industry and enterprise, the cultivation of national morality, respect for religion, sympathy and love of liberty and justice, which have marked the life of the American people during this long period of Republican control.

With the platform and the candidates of this Convention, we are about to ask a renewed expression of popular confidence in the Republican Party.

We shall ask it because the principles to which we declare our adherence are right, and the best interests of our country require that they should be followed in its government.

We shall ask it because the unbroken record of the Republican Party in the past is an assurance of the sincerity of our declarations and the fidelity with which we shall give them effect. Because we have been consistent in principle, loyal to our beliefs and faithful to our promises, we are entitled to be believed and trusted now.

We shall ask it because the character of the Party gives assurance of good government. A great political organization, competent to govern, is not a chance collection of individuals brought together for the moment as the shifting sands are piled up by wind and sea, to be swept away, to be formed and re-formed again. It is a growth. Traditions and sentiments reaching down through struggles of years gone, and the stress and heat of old conflicts, and the influence of leaders passed away, and the ingrained habit of applying fixed rules of interpretation and of thought—all give to a political party known and inalienable qualities from which must follow in its deliberate judgment and ultimate action, like results for good or bad government. We do not deny that other parties have in their membership men of morality and patriotism; but we assert with confidence that above all others, by the influences which gave it birth and have maintained its life, by the causes for which it has striven, the ideals which it has followed, the Republican party as a party has acquired a character which makes its ascendancy the best guarantee of a government loyal to principle and effective in execution. Through it more than any other political organization the moral sentiment of America finds expression. It cannot depart from the direction of its tendencies. From what has been may be known certainly what it must be. Not all of us rise to its standard; not all of us are worthy of its glorious history; but as a whole this great political organization—the party of Lincoln and McKinley—cannot fail to work in the spirit of its past and in loyalty to great ideals.

We shall ask the continued confidence of the people because the candidates whom we present are of proved competency and patriotism, fitted to fill the offices for which they are nominated, to the credit and honor of our country.

We shall ask it because the present policies of our government are beneficial and ought not to be set aside; and the people's business is being well done, and ought not to be interfered with.

Have not the American people reason for satisfaction and pride in the conduct of their government since the election of 1900, when they rendered their judgment of approval upon the first administration of President McKinley? Have we not had an honest government? Have not the men selected for office been men of good reputation who by their past lives had given evidence that they were honest and competent? Can any private business be pointed out in which lapses from honesty have been so few and so trifling proportionately as in the public service of the United States? When they have occurred have not the offenders been relentlessly reprimanded and sternly punished without regard to political or personal relations?

Have we not had an effective government? Have not the laws been enforced? Has not the slow process of legislative discussion upon many serious questions been brought to practical conclusions embodied in beneficial statutes? And has not the executive proceeded without vacillation or weakness to give these effect? Are not the laws of the United States obeyed at home? and does not our government command respect and honor throughout the world?

Have we not had a safe and conservative government? Has not property been protected? Are not the fruits of enterprise and industry secure? For the safeguard of the constitution for the best of our individual freedom has not been scrupulously observed? When has any American administration ever dealt more considerately and wisely with questions which might have been the cause of conflict with foreign powers? When have more just settlements been reached by peaceful means? When has any administration wielded a more powerful influence for peace? and when have we rested more secure in friendship with all mankind?

Four years ago the business of the country was loaded with burdensome internal taxes, imposed during the war with Spain. By the Acts of March 2nd, 1901, and April 12th, 1902, the country has been wholly relieved of that annual burden of over one hundred million dollars; and the country has been constantly withdrawing the money of the country from circulation has been prevented by the reduction of taxation.

Between the 30th of June, 1900, and the first of June, 1903, our Treasury Department collected in revenues an enormous sum of $2,203,000,000, expended $2,023,000,000, leaving us with a surplus of over $170,000,000 after paying the $50,000,000 for the Panama Canal and loaning $4,600,000 to the St. Louis Exposition. Excluding those two extraordinary payments which are investments from past surplus and not expenditures of current income, the surplus for this year will be the reasonable amount of about $12,000,000.

As we gather in this convention, our hearts go back to the friend—the never to be forgotten friend, whom when last we met we acclaimed Wakeful?

Sleeplessness Is a Sign of Nerve Trouble and Should Be Looked To.

There are three different manifestations of sleeplessness.

First, hardly to sleep a wink all night, second, to lie awake a long time before falling asleep; third, to fall asleep soon, waking up after several hours and then find it hard to sleep again.

They mean that somewhere in the nerve fibres, somewhere in the blood vessels that carry blood to the brain, something is radically wrong, and must be righted, or the end may be worse than death.

To fight it, take Dr. Miles' Nervine. Some other symptoms of nerve trouble are: Dizziness, Headache, Backache, Worry, Restlessness, Irritability, Melancholy, Lack of Ambition.

They indicate diseases which may lead to Epilepsy, Fits, St. Vitus' Dance, Nervous Prostration, Paralysis, Insanity. Nothing will give such quick and lasting relief as Dr. Miles' Nervine.

"My husband had been sick for weeks, could not sit up to have his bed made. With all the medical help we could get he could not sleep a wink. Our baby girl was sent away, and all callers barred, because he could not stand a bit of talking. I read of a case of nervous prostration cured by Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine, and in a few days he was able to be dressed. From that time he steadily improved. He is now as well as ever." MRS. A. G. HASKIN, FRESNO, CALIF.

Write to us for Free Trial Package of Dr. Miles' Nervine. It will give you a full description of the disease, and how to fight it. Dr. J. C. HASKIN, FRESNO, CALIF.

That is about the way. The Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York issues policies in these days of varied requirements, in business, and family life.

Mr. Ebe Walter, of Clarksville, Del., writes:

The feature which I particularly like about my policy is that the longer I live the more I get and that during the balance of my life there is nothing more for me to pay.

(From Wilmington (Del.) News, Nov. 27, 1902.)

ed as our universal choice to bear a second time the highest honor in the Nation's gift; and back still, memory goes through many a year of leadership and loyalty.

How wise and how skillful he was! how modest and self-effacing! how deep his insight into the human heart! how swift the intuitions of his sympathy! how compelling the charm of his gracious presence! He was so unselfish, so thoughtful of the happiness of others, so genuine a lover of his country and his kind. And he was the kindest and tenderest friend who ever grasped another's hand. Alas, that his virtues did plead in vain against cruel fate!

Yet we may rejoice, that while he lived he was crowned with honor; that the rancor of party strife had ceased; that success in his great tasks, the restoration of peace, the approval of his countrymen, the affection of his friends, gave the last quiet months in his home at Canton repose and contentment.

And with McKinley we remember Hanna with affection and sorrow—his great lieutenant. They are together again.

But we turn as they would have us turn, to the duties of the hour, the hopes of the future; we turn as they would have us turn, to prepare ourselves for struggle under the same standard borne in other hands, the right of true inheritance. Honor, truth, courage, purity of life, domestic virtue, love of country, loyalty to high ideals—all these combined, with active intelligence, with learning, with experience in affairs, with the conclusive proof of competency afforded by wise and conservative administration, by great things already done and great results already achieved—all these we bring to the people with another candidate. Shall not these have honor in our land? Truth, sincerity, courage! these underlie the fabric of our institutions. Upon hypocrisy and sham, upon cunning and false pretense, upon weakness and cowardice, upon the arts of the demagogue, upon the devices of the mere politician—no government can stand. No system of popular government can endure in which the people do not believe and trust. Our president has taken the whole people into his confidence. Incapable of deception, he has put aside concealment. Frankly and without reserve, he has told them what their government was doing, and the reasons. It is no campaign of appearances upon which we enter, for the people know the good and the bad, the success and failure, to be credited and charged to our account. It is no campaign of sounding words and specious pretences, for our president has told the people with frankness what he believed and what he intended. He has meant every word he said, and the people have believed every word he said, and with him this convention agrees because every word has been sound republican doctrine. No people can maintain free government who do not in their hearts value the qualities which have made the present president of the United States conspicuous among the men of his time as a type of noble manhood. Come what may—come what may in November, God grant that those qualities of brave true manhood shall have honor throughout America, shall be held for an example in every home, and that the youth of generations to come may grow up to feel that it is better than wealth, or office, or power, to have the honesty, the purity, and the courage of Theodore Roosevelt.

INTEREST INCREASING DAILY

Great Enthusiasm Shown By Friends of Contestants Striving For Gazette's Free Trips to the World's Fair.

People are entering into the contest recently inaugurated by the Gazette for a Free Trip to the World's Fair, St. Louis, with considerable spirit. Votes have been coming to the office for candidates and there are a goodly number to the credit of the various contestants.

The prize is well worth an extra amount of hustle: A week's outing at the greatest Exposition ever attempted in any country, absolutely without cost and without the loss of time, including every convenience one could desire, is not an every day occurrence.

The premium in votes for new paid in advance subscriptions is large, and a little time spent each day in looking around for people not already subscribers will result in much good.

The wife of the most popular man, if he has one, goes to the Fair with him and she can do much toward securing the outing for both herself and her husband. The ladies are already doing considerable hustling and the result of their work will be a big factor.

The list of men given herewith is a popular one. Every man has many friends who will do their utmost to aid in securing for them the trip.

Lou Dillon to Try to Beat Record of Maid S. Drawing a High Wheeled Sulky--Hackenschmidt Wrestles Jenkins July 2.

The greatest exploit of Maid S. during her notable career was of course to trot a mile in 2:48 3/4, to a high wheeled sulky. The beloved "queen of the harness turf" performed this historic feat July 30, 1885. On July 30 of this year Lou Dillon will be asked to break a record, and owing to the coincidence of date it is probable that Mr. Billings will decide that the performance shall be as nearly a duplicate of that event as possible.

If the original sulky cannot be obtained, one as nearly like the sulky drawn by Maid S. will be constructed, and instead of having the pace-maker in front, as was the case last year, the present queen will go alongside of the runner.

If weather conditions are favorable, there are few who believe that Lou Dillon will demonstrate beyond peradventure of doubt that she is the fastest trotter that ever lived to that kind of hitch. According to the rulings of the turf authorities, the performance will not be a record, but if the mare is successful that technically will not be considered by the public.

The fact that Lou Dillon's sulky last year was heavier than the one drawn by Maid S. more than offsets in the mind of the general public the advantage she gained by having half bearing axles. The real doubt as to the merits of the two performances lies in the fact that in the case of the present queen the pace-maker was in front, furnishing a wind shield of more or less value—of just how much value the coming performance will probably demonstrate.

With such an attraction as the star feature of the day it is probable that the field day for the benefit of the Cleveland Driving club will be highly successful, for the balance of the card will be such as to attract the patronage of any lover of the light harness horse.

With the opening of the grand circuit at Detroit postponed until July 25 northern trainers should have their

So much talk has been aroused by the recent Gus Rodenbach-Sam Berger fight in San Francisco for the amateur championship of America that there is a strong likelihood that the two boxers will be brought together again.

The story of the Rodenbach-Berger fight was one of superior cleverness outweighing mere advantage. From the first round Rodenbach did the leading. He found Berger's chin whenever he pleased. Berger did some rushing.

ing in the first round and had him man on the ropes more than once, but Rodenbach always got away and was mixing it in the center of the ring. He tapped Berger's chest with a stiff left on the nose and later sent the local champion's head back with a left swing. Berger's best play was on Rodenbach's stomach, but the round ended in Rodenbach's favor.

So with the second and third rounds, Rodenbach repeatedly found Berger's head and chin. They exchanged hard blows repeatedly at close quarters, but at long range it was Rodenbach who did the work. His wonderful footwork appeared to puzzle his adversary.

SLOCUM INQUIRY REVEALS GUILT

FIRST MATE HAD NO LICENSE

Most Important Official on the Boat, Outside the Captain, Was an Iron Worker by Trade and Not Legally Qualified for the Position.

New York, June 21.—These facts were brought out at the first day's session of the coroner's inquest into the fearful catastrophe to the steamboat General Slocum:

That the crew was a makeshift collection of men hired at the cheapest rates.

That the first mate, Edward Flanagan, was an iron worker by trade, not licensed to act as first mate.

That there had been no fire drill.

That many of the deckhands had been on the boat only a few days.

That the fire was discovered in the forward cabin when it was so small that no flame could be seen.

That the inspection of the boat by the United States steamboat inspectors was a farce.

That women, wearing rotten life preservers, were drowned.

That the fire hose was worthless and burst as soon as the water was turned on.

That a rubber washer was kept in the end of the hose fastened to the standpipe. Before the hose could be used it had to be uncoupled, the washer removed, and the hose again coupled to the pipe.

List of Dead Crew.

With the ceaseless recovery of bodies the list of those who perished on the General Slocum is growing steadily. Bodies came to the surface Monday off the shores of North Brother island singly and in groups of two and three, until at dusk ninety-three additional bodies had been recovered.

Every passing steamer seemed to churn up the water to such a degree that with its wash one or more bodies would be swept onto the beach. Between the hours of 3 and 6 in the afternoon forty-five bodies, some of them badly mutilated, were taken ashore by the searching parties.

This brings the total number of bodies recovered up to 734, and yet there are something like 300 persons unaccounted for. A number of these are among the unidentified at the morgue and over on North Brother island, and the "unrecognizable" that have been buried in the Lutheran cemetery on Long Island.

Coroner's Inquiry Begins.

The coroner's inquiry into the disaster was begun Monday. Thousands of persons gathered in and around the armory in the borough of The Bronx, where the inquest was held. Among those examined were Frank A. Barnaby, president of the Knickerbocker Steamboat company; James H. Atkinson, the secretary of the company; Mate Flanagan of the Slocum and several members of the crew.

President Barnaby of the Knickerbocker Steamboat company, owner of the General Slocum, was the first witness, and from him it was learned that the actual operation of the steamer was under Capt. Van Schaick, who received his instructions from Capt. Pease. On application of the latter, he said, an inspection of the Slocum was made by the United States authorities before she was put in commission this year, saying, "It was reported to us that the Slocum was in thorough good order and working condition." Mr. Barnaby said that he had instructed Capt. Pease at the opening of the season to put the Slocum "in first class condition and to spare no expense. We spent $12,000 on the repairs suggested."

According to the testimony of John J. Coakley, one of the Slocum's deck hands, at the coroner's inquest, he never had been instructed in a fire drill since he became an employee of the Knickerbocker company, at the beginning of last season. No attempt was made to replace the ruined hose, he said, as the passengers were in a panic and made it almost impossible for the men to do anything. It was impossible to reach any of the life rafts because of the panic, but one of the lifeboats was lowered. The other boats were so surrounded by struggling persons that the crew could not get at them. The boat which they succeeded in clearing and which was filled with women and children capsized while it was being lowered from the davits.

Several other members of the crew corroborated Coakley's story in most of its details, but none of them knew of a lifeboat having been lowered. Their recollection was that the panic was so great that none of the crew had been able to reach the lifeboats or rafts. One of the men, James Corcoran, described the solid rubber washer attached to the standpipe to prevent water dripping into the hose and rotting it. To get this washer off, so the hose could be used, it would have been necessary to disconnect the hose from the standpipe. Corcoran did not see this done.

Yale Treasurer Resigns. New Haven, Conn., June 21.—Treasurer Morris Tyler of Yale university has announced that his resignation would be presented to the Yale corporation at its next meeting.

Trees That Whistle. The species of acacia which grows very abundantly in Nubia and the Sudan is called the "whistling tree" by the natives. Its shoots are frequently distorted in shape by the agency of larvae of insects, and swollen into globular bladder from one to two inches in diameter. After the insect has emerged from the circular hole in the side of the swelling, the opening, played upon by the wind, becomes a musical instrument suggested of a sweet-toothed flute.

SECOND PLACE BOOMS BURST

PLATFORM BUILDERS ARE BUSY

Delegates Bring Planks That Cover the Entire Field of Political Economy, Including Ship Subsidy, Tariff Reform and the Free Ballot.

Chicago, June 21.—Theodore Roosevelt will be nominated for President and Charles W. Fairbanks will be nominated for Vice President by the unanimous vote of the Republican national convention.

The contest over the Vice Presidency ended when New York and Pennsylvania endorsed Senator Fairbanks and agreed to cast their solid votes for him. Other states began to fall into line behind the lead of the great Eastern states, until there were enough votes pledged to the Indiana Senator to make his nomination sure on the first ballot. The Massachusetts delegation, which has flirted with several candidates in the field and attempted to bring out new ones, is ready to go to Fairbanks, and so are Ohio and Iowa, Michigan and Wisconsin.

The only uncertainty now is as to whether the states with favorite sons will present their names and insist on a complimentary vote. The probability is that Mr. Hitt's name will not be presented to the convention, or that it will be presented and withdrawn, and the vote of Illinois cast for Senator Fairbanks. The other states with favorite sons are trying to find a way to express their approval of these conditions and at the same time get into line for Fairbanks.

Wisconsin Contest.

Contents for seats in the convention will be waged more vigorously before the committee on credentials than they were before the national committee. The Wisconsin fight will be gone over again. Governor La Follette arrived in Chicago late Monday afternoon and his friends at once began an active campaign among the different state delegations. Defeated before the credentials committee, they say they will carry the contest into the convention. How this will be done they declined to say last night, but it will probably be through a minority report of the committee.

Though the national committee was unanimously against La Follette delegates feel that they will have enough friends on the credentials committee to present a minority report. If the committee gives them half a vote they will not carry the contest further. The "stalwarts" say it is a fight to a finish, and they will oppose any compromise.

Suggest Platform Planks.

The platform builders, comprising an important element of the delegates who have come to the national convention, are much occupied in whittling out certain planks which they feel sure would fit into the complete fabric with exact nicety. Apparently each state delegation had at least one man who was sure the country would disintegrate or fall into decay if his plank were not accepted by the committee on resolutions.

The planks that are not called timely and pertinent will be refused without much attempt at apology by the committee. But there are a few suggestions that are said to be sure of acceptance.

It is asserted by some leaders that the platform should contain some reference to the merchant marine in the rebuilding of which several of the eastern and western coast states are especially interested. Senator Gallinger feels that the plank in the platform of New Hampshire Republicans might be taken safely by the national party as its declaration on this score.

Merchant Marine.

It provides for a hearty endorsement of remedial legislation that will encourage the rebuilding of the merchant marine. It calls attention to the bounties and subsidies given by foreign governments to the private corporations who construct merchantmen, and hints strongly that our merchant marine needs protection of the same kind. Senator Gallinger probably will ask the resolutions committee to lift this paragraph from the New Hampshire platform and make it the policy of the party as a whole. He is a member of the resolutions committee, having been chosen yesterday, and will have a chance to plead this cause.

The delegation from the state of Washington has adopted a strong endorsement of a vigorous merchant marine plank. Both New Hampshire and Washington think well of the ship subsidy, but neither state will insist that the word "subsidy" be used in the national platform.

The Oregon delegation is said to be opposed to the ship subsidy plan and will fight this plank in the committee on resolutions. Maine is expected to stand by the merchant marine plank, although Representative Littlefield said that as far as he knew the delegation from that state had no special plank to offer.

International Arbitration.

With the arrival in town of Representative Richard Bartholdt from Missouri there was carried into Chicago also a small plank which is dubbed the plank asking for international arbitration. Mr. Bartholdt is president of the International Arbitration league, and at the convention of that organization he was instructed to do what he could to have the Republican party declare for the new policy. It is understood there will be no opposition to it in the resolutions committee.

The Alabama delegation also has come to the front with a little offering. It will seek the introduction of a clause pledging the party to the enactment of such legislation "as shall secure to all citizens of the republic complete liberty, and exact equality." Herschel V. Cashin is behind the idea, and believes that inasmuch as certain Southern states have enacted laws that are oppressive to the colored race it is time the Republican party go on record as antagonistic to this. The Alabama offering also favors a more stringent system of criminal law covering peonage.

Tariff Readjustment.

Senator Hansbrough of North Dakota brought to town his tariff readjustment and reciprocity plank. The senator was named to represent that state on the resolutions committee, and other advocates of tariff revision, such as Gov. Cummins of Iowa, were inclined to leave the burden of the battle upon the senator's shoulders.

The knowledge that the committee on resolutions would unquestionably agree to a tariff readjustment plank, previously framed by the president's closest advisers, caused the senator to be a bit doubtful if action by him would be necessary. He said he would present his plank at all events.

Senator Hansbrough received calls from delegates from Iowa, Massachusetts, Connecticut, New York, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, Wisconsin, Minnesota and other states, encouraging them to "go ahead."

Readjustment in Favor.

The senator asserted that sentiment favoring tariff readjustment can be found in every state, and that in some states this sentiment takes the form of a demand for reciprocity.

"Reciprocity is not popular in the wheat belt of the Northwest," continued the senator. "It is popular with the millers of Minneapolis because they wish to buy their wheat cheaper while having no idea of reducing the price of flour. But the farmers want none of it. Tariff readjustment is a different thing. Sentiment on this matter has greatly changed since 1897. Of the states that demand reciprocity in lieu of actual tariff revision I should mention Massachusetts as among the leaders. The manufacturers there are looking for a wider market for their products."

Cedars of Lebanon.

The cedars of Lebanon are not yet entirely exterminated, but for many years most European lead pencils were made of cedar imported from America. The largest German manufacturer now has a cedar forest of his own at home. In the United States alone about 125,000 cedars are annually converted into pencils.

Hint to Housekeepers.

An Atchison woman recently served seven mushrooms to a guest and her family of six, and had enough and to spare. How did she do it? She could not afford any more mushrooms, so she stewed sponges and put them on the steak. The guest was given the genuine and the family got the sponges and managed to avoid eating them without exciting the guest's suspicions.—Atchison Globe.

Taking the Bull by the Horns, or, a Tale of REDUCING a stock of Ready-to-Wear Suits.

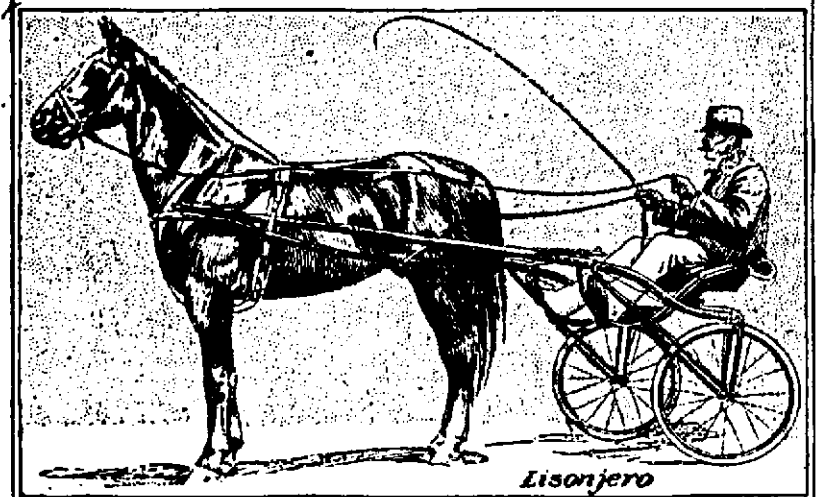

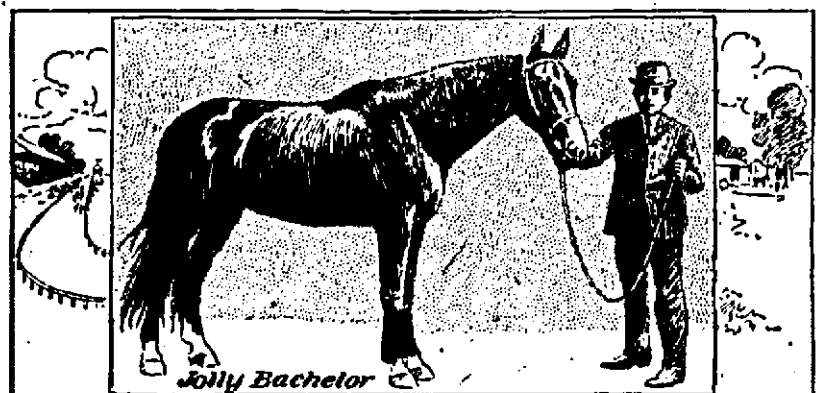

THE majority of the Suits we have were bought this Spring, and many of them are made of the new mannish materials that promise to be popular for Fall wear. We have an enviable reputation for carrying Suits as good as money can buy, reliable, well-made, stylish. We show a large variety, such as Scotch Suitings, Voile, Kersey, Mixtures, etc.

During the next two months we will close out every Suit in stock, and our PRICE'S will do it. This year the suit business with us commenced very early and we have had a long season of selling. The time has come for doing something BIG in order to sell suits in large bunches.

We have put the Suits into 8 lots and the majority of them average much less than half price. The lot numbers have been put on the different racks and every suit marked in plain figures on a large tag so that anybody can see just exactly what we are doing. We quote the following prices:

Lot 1, $4.75; Lot 2, $6.85; Lot 3, $11.50;
Lot 4, 10.00; Lot 5, 15.00; Lot 6, 14.00;
Lot 7, 17.50.

This means a big money loss to us and a big benefit to customers.

horses in condition to compete with the best from the south. Some of the critics are of the opinion that the Memphis, California and other horses having the advantage of winter training will be able to walk away with all the big stakes in which they are engaged. This is hardly likely unless it should happen that these horses are superior to the northern trained ones.

George Hackenschmidt, "the Russian Lion" who last January vanquished Ahmed, Madrali, the sultan's favorite wrestler, will defend his title as the world's champion Greco-Roman wrestler on July 2, when he will meet the great Tom Jenkins of Cleveland at Albert hall, London.

Hackenschmidt is regarded by many as the finest exponent of the classical style of wrestling in this generation. He is a perfectly proportioned man, beautifully built, and his body is a mold of massive muscles.

Hackenschmidt is of German extraction, though his family settled in Russia. His uncle commands one of the czar's battleships. He was educated for a technical engineer, but found gymnastics and wrestling more to his liking.

Though only twenty-six years old, he showed up to better advantage. He sent in rights to Rodenbach's body and eye and with a right hook laid open his adversary's optic. But Rodenbach came back repeatedly with deadly precision on Berger's chin and head and at the close of the round caught his man a smash on the jaw that nearly did the business.

Wrong Idea of Japanese.

Many Japanese peasants believe that the Japanese are a race of ugly dwarfs, and that the Concocks led them by throwing their big caps at them or suffocating them therewith.
